Data: The More You Give, the Better It Gets

At Compdata Surveys, we're committed to providing HR professionals with the compensation data they need to stay competitive. Each year, thousands of organizations across the country turn to us for quality results at an affordable price. With our extensive pay and benefits database and experienced compensation consultants, we are equipped to provide innovative solutions to the most difficult compensation challenges.

Choose from our suite of survey products: "Compensation Data," "BenchmarkPro," "Executive Compensation" and "Benefits USA." With data from more than 5,000 participants, you'll find the market information you need to make accurate compensation decisions. Learn more about our surveys at www.compdatasurveys.com/surveys.

Why Participate?

Providing data for surveys can be time-consuming. Here are seven reasons why it's worth it.

1. Participants receive the results at a significantly discounted rate.
2. When you complete one of our surveys, your data will be prepopulated the following year. You only need to update any changes, significantly reducing the time you would normally spend completing the survey questionnaire.

3. Our online results tool allows you to display the data you provided to quickly and easily compare your organization against the market averages.
4. Results based on a larger sample size are more reliable and provide additional, comprehensive breakdowns.
5. In compliance with DOJ/FTC guidelines, salary information should reflect data from at least five organizations. For some very narrow data cuts, your organization may make the fifth data provider for a given title.
6. Participants who submit data each year lend stability and reliability to the data you purchase.
7. Companies that rely on survey data for their compensation planning have a responsibility to contribute to the data pool. With your participation, the data provides a better representation of the true market value.

Participation for the 2012 Survey is now open.

By participating, your organization can take advantage of our discounted participant rates, saving you hundreds of dollars on survey data. If you're searching for tools that will help you overcome today's obstacles, turn to a survey provider that helps you put all the pieces of your compensation plan together.
